Ever Towards Greatness . . .

ALMOST from the time men heard of America they were planning its universities. Long before the first permanent settlers arrived in Maryland an idealistic English gentleman, Edward Palmer, purchased an island in the Chesapeake in order to establish a university there unfettered by tradition. The colonial legislature of Maryland talked endlessly about the need for a university, and in 1784 incorporated Washington and St. John's Colleges as "The University of Maryland," guaranteeing its professors freedom from taxation and its students freedom from the draft. So active were Marylanders in their talk of higher education that for many years it seemed likely that a national university, endowed by George Washington, would be established close to what is now College Park. Of course, talk outdistanced reality. Rivalry between the Eastern and Western shores, religious revilry and a lack of qualified students caused the first University of Maryland to fail; and someone absconded with the money Washington left.

Meanwhile in Baltimore the present institution was born in 1807 when an angry mob destroyed the laboratory of Dr. John B. Davidge who was using cadavers to teach his apprentices human anatomy. Physicians of the town persuaded the legislature to provide them protection by chartering a College of Medicine. It was entirely faculty-owned with no administration whatever. Students paid each professor directly for the right to attend class, and bad professors got no students. When students thought they were ready, after about two years, they took an examination for their M.D. degree.

The College of Medicine was so successful that in 1812 the legislature changed its name to the University of Maryland and allowed it to offer other degrees in the same way. Without fixed salaries, administration and discipline, the undergraduate college was never very successful, but the unusual system of faculty ownership allowed Maryland to assume a national leadership in the creation of professional schools. It gave birth to the first dental school in the world, one of the country's first effective schools of law, and the fourth school of pharmacy. Its medical professors suggested evolution and the germ theory long before Darwin and Pasteur; the once scarce cadavers for dissection became so plentiful that Frank, the famous janitor, pickled the surplus ones in barrels of whiskey to supply the medical colleges of New England.

As professional schools emerged, the aristocratic planters of Maryland sought to secure their own position in society by establishing the Maryland Agricultural College. Far out in the country, far from the corrupting influences of a town, they built a handsome five-story gothic structure, located on the hill where the main dining hall stands today. Led by the lordly Charles Benedict Calvert, it was an elite institution when it opened in 1859, designed as a college where rich men's sons could learn stern discipline, modern science, and the social and cultural values of a gentleman. Unfortunately for the college, the day of the gentleman planter was almost over.

Like the state, the institutions in Baltimore and College Park were bitterly torn by the Civil War. From both institutions, about a third of the faculty, students and alumni went South to fight for the Confederacy. Both institutions remained enclaves of Confederate sympathy and perhaps espionage. When Confederate troops passed through College Park late in the war, the administration entertained them with a grand ball.

Both campuses had difficulties adjusting to the post-war industrial era. Although the trustees of the Agricultural College accepted funds from the land-grant act, they clung defiantly to their old planter values and elected eight Confederate officers in a row to serve as president. All during the 1870's and 1880's about fifty students in modified Confederate uniforms paraded about the little military college on the hill while the politics of Maryland swirled around it. In Baltimore, the very success of Maryland's faculty-owned professional schools inspired dozens of competitors. Almost any group of doctors, dentists or lawyers could set themselves up as a school to offer degrees, each one attracting students with lower tuition and easier standards than their competitors.

Then, during the 1890's, the institutions at College Park and Baltimore began to rise again. The small farmers of the state began to assert themselves, gained control of the Agricultural College from the broken planters, and transformed its curriculum to emphasize practical subjects like farming and engineering. Agricultural research agencies, agricultural control bureaus and farm demonstration agents spread out over the state, giving the College a broad popular base. The Wright Brothers arrived in College Park in 1909 to make the little village into the world's first air corps boom town. When the main college building burned in 1912, that only stimulated state-wide concern for the institution. The state legislature took control and bore the costs of rebuilding. Football, fraternities, and rah-rah came, giving the college a life of its own.

As the rural Populist spirit revitalized the Agricultural College, the urban Progressive spirit revitalized professional education. Accrediting agencies appeared and state licensing laws were passed, driving disreputable schools out of business and allowing the University to grow powerful. In order to provide further aid and further control, the state took over the faculty-owned University in 1920, merging it with the state-owned institution at College Park.

During the early 1920's, jazz was hot, and during the early 1930's, depression was bleak. The able president Albert F. Woods took full advantage of the merger, giving new emphasis to standards, to the arts and sciences, and to graduate work. Students, newly affiliated and proud of their institution as never before, set out to enjoy themselves. Sometimes the jazz got too hot, and after the Washington Post called the University a "Pajama Paradise," Woods resigned. Standards as well as spirits sagged. Some students tore the velvet off their tunedoes to wear them to class. Others were expelled for refusing to join the ROTC, and there was an anti-Semitic riot. Everyone around the University seemed to be looking for a strong new leader.

They called him "Curley." Charming and handsome, football hero in 1908 and later coach, H. C. Byrd had long been the best known man on the campus. As president from 1935 until he retired to run for governor in 1954, he was one of the most spectacular and controversial men in Maryland politics or in American education. Although professors sometimes feared him as a dictator, even they were generally proud as the University launched bold new programs and institutes, as "progressive" education flowered, as the plant expanded and enrollment soared, and as championship football teams brought unprecedented publicity.

When Wilson H. Elkins became president in 1954 saddle oxfords were giving way to the Ivy League look and a new purposefulness was coming over education. The president was a Rhodes scholar who talked about self-discipline, individual initiative, quality and excellence. The emphasis was on libraries, research and higher faculty salaries. Restricted admission and an academic probation plan brought a dramatic rise in standards. An honors program began, and in 1964 Phi Beta Kappa established a chapter at Maryland. Enrollment continued to soar, from 3,000 in 1934, to 12,000 in 1954, to more than 26,000 in 1966. In Catonsville an entirely new campus began.

Today the University of Maryland stands proud in the summer of its maturity, one of the oldest and largest educational institutions in America, moving ever towards greatness.

This account is a synopsis by Dr. George H. Callcott from his book, "A History of the University of Maryland" (Maryland Historical Society, 1966).

"History is written about persons who accepted the challenge of excellence and creativity and ultimately prevailed. I am fully confident that this era will be remembered as the time when America provided every person with an opportunity to accept this challenge—when we discarded forever the shroud of hate and bigotry for the shining mantle of human freedom and dignity."

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Diverse Forces Prod Our Minds

Known as "the father of the atomic bomb," DR. EDWARD TELLER stressed at the annual honors convocation that today's intellectuals can best fulfill their responsibilities "by demanding that we be intellectual in a thoroughly democratic society." Teller was one of the major developers of the first atomic bomb and later helped in the design of the hydrogen bomb. He is currently a professor-at-large from the University of California.

Maryland's Senator JOSEPH A. TYDINGS addressed the incoming freshman class during orientation, and presented to the students a challenge for rehabilitating state and local governments. Tydings cited several needs for changes, among them the need for secretaries, minimal office space problems, and larger staffs for branches like the Ways and Means Committee.

In addition, he mentioned the possibility of a rapid transit system, and he finally stressed the need for the students to take an active part in this improvement.

Social satirist DICK GREGORY entertained his packed-house audience at Ritchie Coliseum as he remarked on national security, human foibles, and "the doubtful brotherhood of whites and Negroes." After a very refreshing period of jokes and comments, Gregory turned the spotlight upon the audience and asked for questions. Civil Rights, his political aspirations, and the U.S. defense policy were among the topics discussed. Gregory engendered laughter throughout the evening and left his audience with a profound impression of his ability as a comedian.

"Who can understand it?," is a common question which arises when the subject of opera is mentioned. BORIS GOLDOVSKY, founder, director and producer of the Goldovsky Opera Theatre, is the man who changed all that.

He has translated some of the greatest works of European composers for the enjoyment of American audiences. His adaptation of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" was staged in Ritchie Coliseum with a company of fifty, full orchestra and specially designed sets and costumes.

A fine, balanced program of piano duet characterized Cultural Committee's Spectrum Series presentation of FERRANTE AND TEICHER. The program was a collection of motion picture themes and popular ballads. Ferrante and Teicher were representative of the quality of program which the S.G.A. Cultural Committee worked hard to obtain during the year.

Students were treated to an outstanding series of lectures which were sponsored by the History Department. DR. GALBRAITH, a Regius Professor from Oxford, spoke on anglo-saxon history, about which he is considered to be a leading authority.

The Inter-Fraternity Council's Rush Forum was addressed by Supreme Court Justice TOM CLARK as the opening of Fall rush took place at Ritchie Coliseum. Mr. Justice Clark is national vice president of Delta Tau Delta fraternity and an alumnus of that fraternity's University of Texas chapter.

A campus controversy arose last Fall when an invitation to civil rights leader BAYARD RUSTIN was challenged by a John Birch Society member. This began as a result of Rustin's refusal to sign the Maryland Loyalty Pledge. Rustin spoke before the Law Enforcement Institute on October 12, after it was decided by the state legislature that it would not be necessary to sign the pledge for one appearance.

The genius of ARTHUR FIEDLER has fused into the repertory of the Boston Pops Tour Orchestra the best of two musical worlds—the classical and the popular. The old maestro led his unique musical organization in one of its characteristic smorgasbord concerts last spring. The program, sponsored by the Panhellenic-Interfraternity Council, included selections ranging Rachmaninoff's first piano concerto and passages from "Swan Lake" to music from "Mondo Cane" and "Hello Dolly."

The Green Years

FOR MANY incoming freshmen like Nancy Morrey, college life here among 27,000 students was at first a lonely experience. There were just a few friends and activities in that exploratory interim, but no real feeling of belonging.

As that first semester rolled on, the future 1969 graduate discovered campus life in the form of football. "I feel like I can cheer because I really belong here," she said at last.

Physical education, in which she is majoring, and other classes brought with them friends with mutual interests, and soon teachers "seemed to make an effort to learn our names and get to know us," she found.

Nancy prepares her vital statistics for the ID card she will keep for the next four years at the University.

The importance of the "University Community" is emphasized by Miller Hudson during the summer orientation program.

"Well, if James Bond can be 007, I guess I can't complain about my new label, zero-eight-five-nine-two-five."

"Hey, look me over," is the theme which prevails during sorority rush.

Three days of Open House parties gives freshman girls a chance to meet sorority women and get a glimpse of Greek life.

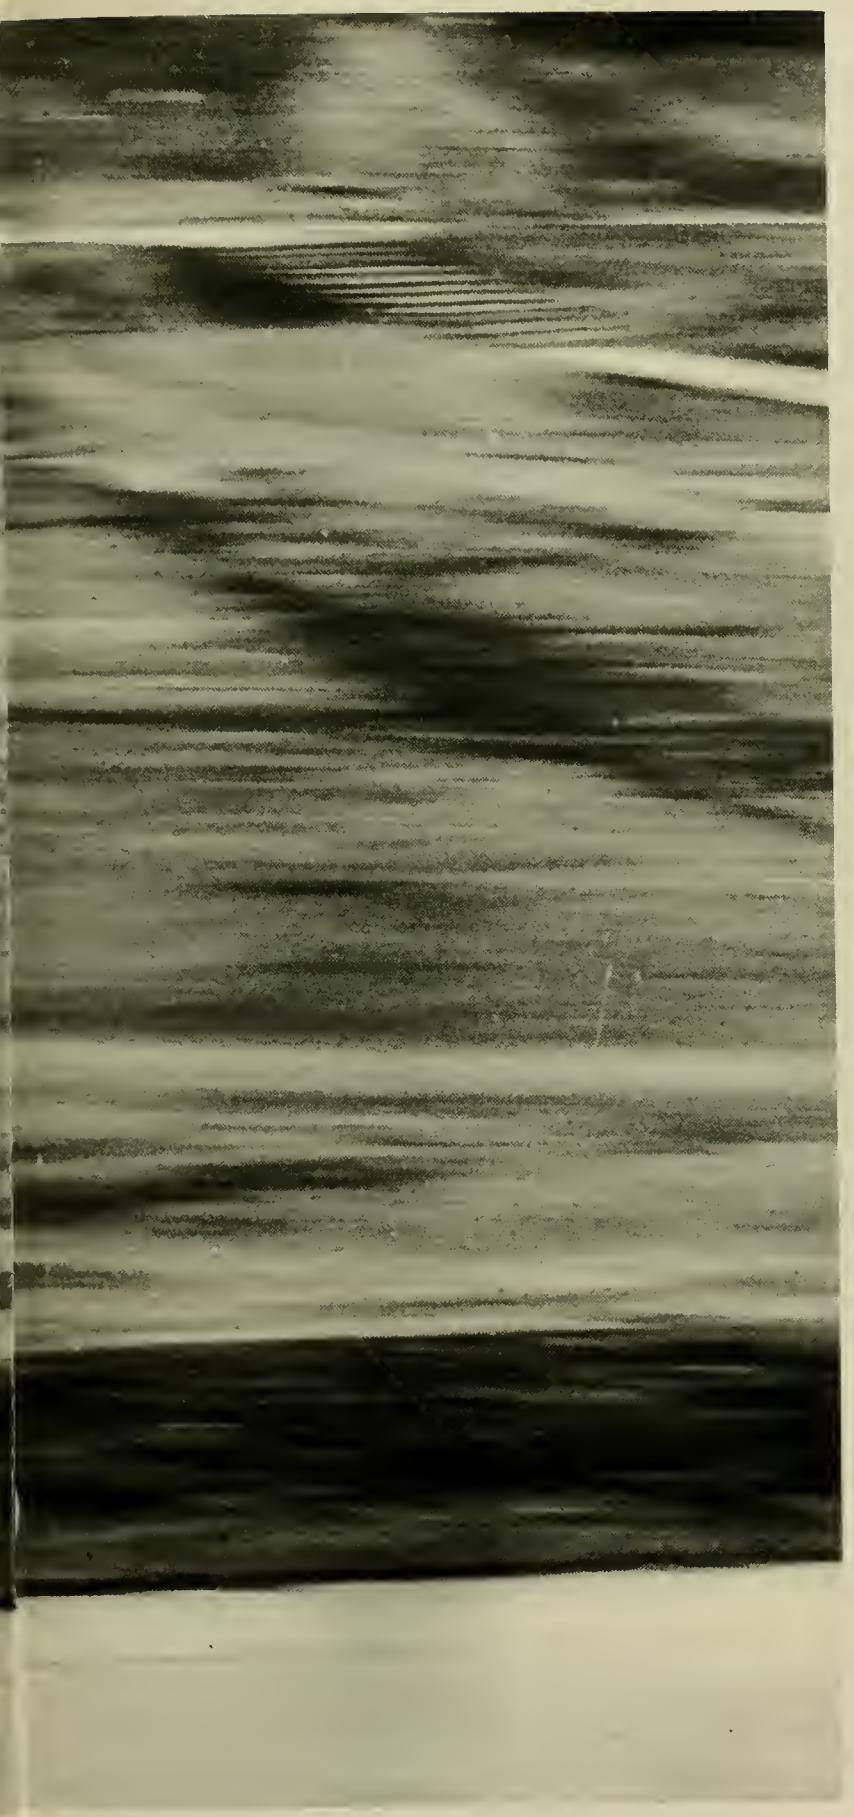
Nancy relaxes by shooting another strike in the Student Union alleys.

Watching an exciting football game provides Nancy with a chance to cheer and develop school spirit. Her attendance and participation allows her to become an integral member of MU's college community.

FOR THIS commuter, gone were the days of alienation from "the group," of long hours just studying in the Student Union or being alone in the library.

She had finally found new friends, new interests—and new ideas.

Nancy became not just Number 085925 among all those entering freshmen during summer orientation, among the vast student body, but an active person, a "part of" her University of Maryland.



At the Pinnacle

LOOKING FORWARD to graduation "with anticipation" this June is Chris Okikiade, one of the few Nigerians at the University and a senior who has contributed much to its inner life.

"After graduation, what next?" is a question oft-posed by seniors and this would-be civil engineer answers with "the MU Graduate School."

He has managed to maintain a 3.9 average, remain in the top 10 percent of his class of civil engineers and excel at such diversities as the college soccer team, being International Club president and speaking at the Rochester Conference On People-to-People.

Physical exercise and mental strain have Chris 'sliding' into graduation.

Even though he is extremely active in campus-wide extra-curricular activities, Chris still finds time to socialize with his friends.

. . . a rung of the ladder

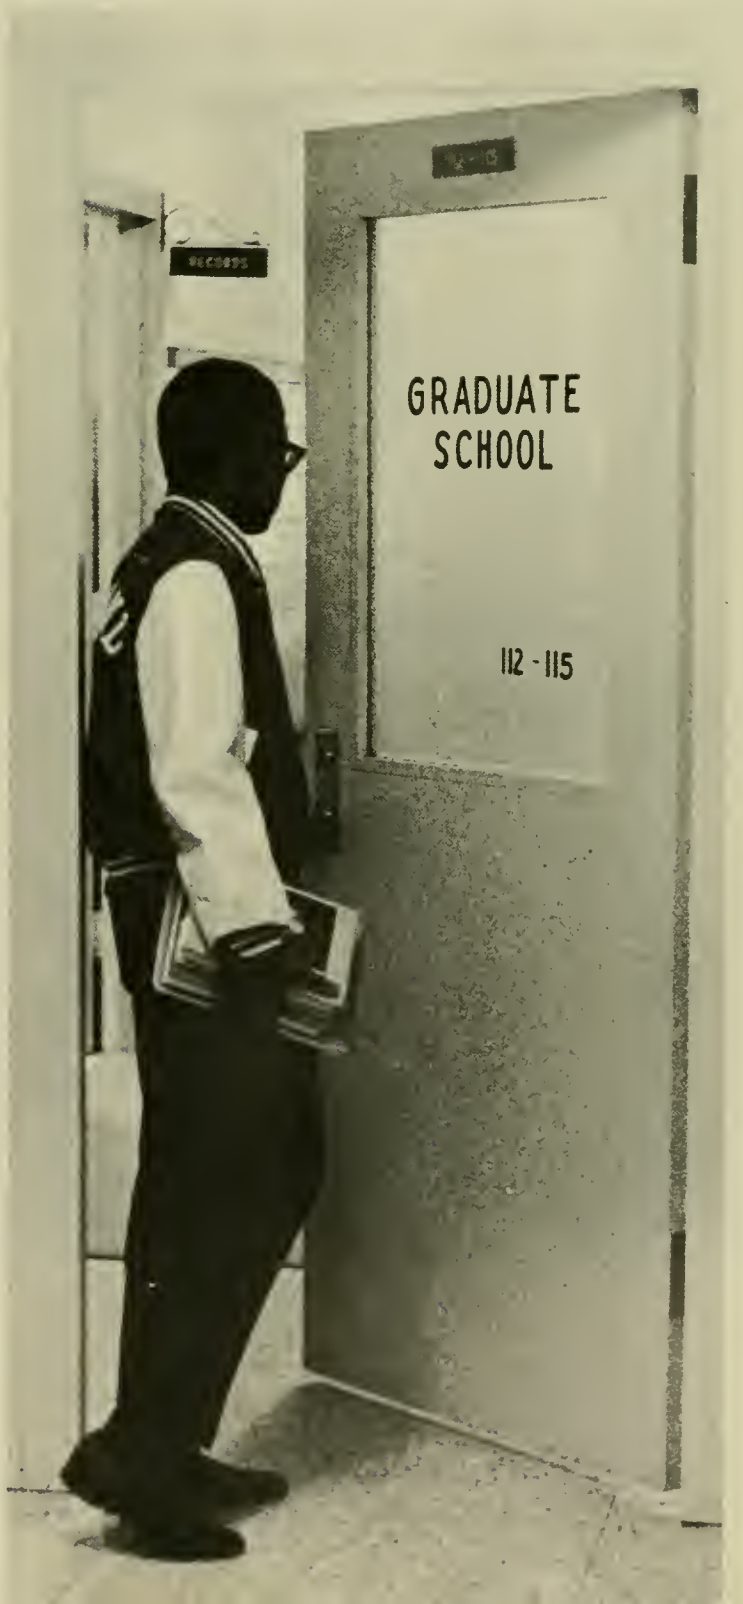
diversity, an universal quality

Chatting over current events, Chris enjoys a local social. "Right foot forward, now back two steps."



LISTED IN "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," Chris still finds time for sports, the Chapel Choir, Baptist Student Union and the American Society for Civil Engineering.

His four-year contributions have also included the Nigerian Exhibition for the International Fiesta and the Nigerian cultural event sponsored by the International Club.

He has made the Atlantic Coast Conference and the University honor rolls and rounded out his college career by being a member of two honoraries.

The Apprentices

AN ASSISTANTSHIP program that permits teaching and "exciting facilities" are two attractions that drew at least one coed to the University Graduate School.

Margo Aylesworth chose to do graduate work in radio and television here "because they offer a good assistantship program that involves teaching." She will also tell you that "the TV facilities in the new (J. Millard Tawes) fine arts building are really quite exciting."

Now in her second year here at MU, Margo is minoring in public relations and received her undergraduate degree at Ohio State University, where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

This car-less gal lives in an off-campus apartment and commutes by bus or gets an occasional ride with friends.

In addition to rehearsing the scene, Margo must also learn the proper orientation and coordination of the lighting controls.

The life of a graduate student is directly influenced by many people. Not only is Margo's time devoted to absorbing the newest technological advances in the field of radio and television, but also is shared in consultation with her adviser. As an instructor in the basic public speaking program, she finds time to direct and guide her students, and in her spare time she occassionally enjoys leisure reading.

AT SCHOOL, as graduate assistant, Margo teaches several speech classes, including speech 1 and 7, which are basic public speaking courses. At home, when "in the mood," she may be found playing the guitar for relaxation. But due to the continual pressures of instructing and working towards her masters degree, Margo finds "too little time for relaxation."

Of the Washington area she is fond because of the "vast resource material available," she says.

Though Margo spends many hours doing research and preparing her lesson plans, she also finds time to pursue her musical interests.

The Pacesetters

TO WHAT goals does a college professor aspire? To Harry E. Hickey, assistant professor in the College of Engineering's fire protection curriculum since 1960, they are threefold, simple and far-reaching.

He is guided by the desire "to be ever-cognizant of the individual's dignity; to motivate genuine enthusiasm for the field of endeavor; and to extend the person's horizons of knowledge beyond traditional approaches to problem-solving in his chosen field."

Education never ends for Hickey, who is currently at work on his doctorate in public administration at American University. He already holds a master of science degree in science education from the State University of New York.

The business world once called him to become director of fire administration for a corporation before coming here and he also served as research consultant for a chemical firm. He responded to local government's beckoning by working as field instructor in the Bureau of Fire Mobilization and Control in New York State, from which he hails. At MU, he enriches student life by serving on a variety of key committees.

Professor Hickey, as a pacesetter here at the University, represents one of the many important men of our faculty. It is these men who, with ability, have met the challenge.

The nature of intelligence, the conquest of knowledge develops "fire" in our minds. This is exemplified by Assistant Professor Harry Hickey. In daily life, delivering lectures in rooms aptly labelled with "No Smoking" signs is followed by laborious searching through the book store for books, old and new. The end of a harrowing day still leaves Professor Hickey "burning the midnight oil."

As the 98.6er's stand watching attentively, information is gained about the circuitry of this thermoelectric pyrometer.

As a key figure in the Nugent house burning fire tests, Hickey coordinated instrumentation and data collection with the assistance of one of his fire protection classes.

After a long day, Assistant Professor Hickey finds a warm, well-earned greeting from his youngest daughter, Linda.

The Honorable
J. Millard Tawes

The Governor

J MILLARD TAWES
GOVERNOR

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND 21404

Greetings:

We citizens of Maryland take great pride in the University of Maryland and the achievements of its students, faculty, administration and alumni.

The vital role played by this great University is significant as are the contributions it is making to the lives of individuals, to our State and to the Nation.

The outstanding leadership provided by President Wilson H. Elkins and the dedicated men and women serving the cause of higher education in Maryland has enabled you to receive an education of the highest caliber. Each of you now faces the task of fulfilling your obligation to utilize that education to provide capable leadership and significant service to your State and Nation and to the world.

I offer my sincere congratulations to all the members of the University of Maryland Class of 1966.

Sincerely,

J. Millard Tawes

Governor

Board of Regents

BOARD OF REGENTS: L. L. Kaplan, H. H. Nuttle, T. B. Symons, E. F. Holter, Dr. W. H. Elkins, C. P. McCormick, B. H. Brown, W. C. Walsh, R. W. Case, Mrs. J. L. Whitehurst, W. B. Long.

THE ELEVEN MEMBERS of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland serve in a capacity which is not always evident to the majority of the student body. In addition to the educational role which they fulfill, the Board act as the Board of Agriculture for the State of Maryland, and in addition are responsible for inspecting the weights and measures for the state, beside making regulatory rules.

The Board members are appointed by the Governor for a nine year period. This appointment is with the advise and the consent of the State Senate.

This group of people represent a cross-section of society which includes educators, statesman, philanthropists, and industrialists. They are responsible for the broad policy and finance of the University. This past year they proposed a capital improvement budget of $13,193,000.00 to the General Assembly. The Board of Regents has recently approved a request to the Governor of $60,552,000.00. For the 1965-66 fiscal year, the University's budget was in excess of 83 million dollars. The Board deals with this immense amount of money consisting of state appropriations, special funds, and dedicated funds.

For the dedication which these educators exhibit in their service to the University, in the undying willingness to devote long hours and voluminous paperwork, the students sincerely thank the members of the Board of Regents.

University of Maryland

President, Wilson H. Elkins

HIS DOOR IS never closed to the student, his goal is greater educational achievements in the future and his accomplishments based on the premise that "The University is the rear guard and the advance agent of society" are many—he is President Wilson H. Elkins, administrator at the helm of the vast University of Maryland.

The leader has admitted that the presidency of a university is a "unique and sometimes frustrating job," but since 1954, Dr. Elkins has kept steadily at it, fighting the often slowness of progress and realizing academic and concrete, physical results.

Along the way, the executive has insisted that the student must develop his own desire to learn and that the quality of the teacher remain high, the tools of academic distinction.

Dr. Elkins enjoys dinner at the Newman Center dedication.

Conferences consume the majority of the average working day for Dr. Elkins in which many important decisions are decided.

Taking time out from administrative duties, Dr. Elkins often entertains as a guest speaker.

TO BE A successful leader, it is said that "the boss" must be able to perform the jobs of those whom he directs.

Nonetheless true academically, the axiom has been proved by Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, President of the University.

Before arriving at the top here, he received both his bachelor and master degrees at the University of Texas. Those achievements were followed-up by obtaining on a Rhodes Scholarship, his bachelor of letters and doctor of philosophy degrees from Oxford University in England.

In the undergraduate days, he excelled at sports, winning eight varsity letters in football, basketball and track.

While serving as "boss" at MU for the past 12 years, the president has been awarded honorary degrees from Washington College and Johns Hopkins University.

He sees the university as a testing ground for the ability, perseverance and patience of the student, as is the outside world for others.

Many times pleasure must be mixed with business as President and Mrs. Elkins attend numerous university-oriented social events.

Dr. Elkins is awarded honorary membership in the Boy Scouts of America.

The University of Maryland's new head football coach Lou Saban is welcomed at a press conference in Cole Field House.

Executive Dean for Student Life

THE OFFICE of the Executive Dean for Student Life can be found in the North Administration Building, and the position is held by Dr. Leslie R. Bundgaard. The Office functions to supervise the wide variety of departments and activities that make up the student's life outside the classroom.

There are several deans who serve under Dean Bundgaard, among them Dean Thomas E. Florestano, who coordinates all student activities, and advises the Student Government Association.

In his first full year here, Dean Alfred E. Miller has supervised the activities of the Inter-fraternity Council, and also acts in the capacity of advisor to the Cultural Committee.

Dean Salvatore R. Esposito is in charge of the judiciary system of the University. His office deals with all major disciplinary problems which are not dealt with by the Student Courts, which he also supervises.

Profiles In Teaching

"CREATIVE AND imaginative approaches to teaching" have earned six University of Maryland faculty members $1,000 individual awards and recognition for outstanding achievement.

The winners were named during November's Honors Convocation, at which Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, rewarded the excellence in teaching of Dr. Edgar F. Beall, Dr. Charles G. Crispens, Jr., Dr. Roger H. Hermanson, Dr. Davis G. Kyle, Dr. Jackie G. Weatherred and Irvin Weintraub.

"Through the application of their unusual talents, each of the recipients has furthered those ideals that the University of Maryland strives to promote," it was noted at the convocation.

Each man, each educator has made his individual mark on his students. Comments by them bear testimony.

Of Dr. Beall, it has been said that he is "very knowledgable" and "academically astute;" of Dr. Crispens, "an expert in his field;" and of Dr. Hermanson, "an extremely logical mind."

Equal praise has met Dr. Kyle: "very popular with his students;" Dr. Weatherred: "enthusiasm for teaching, genuine interest in students;" and Weintraub: "a humanitarian; regards human aspects."

These, then, are the persons whose influences on the student body have been singled out by their fellow faculty members for the awards.

IRVIN WEINTRAUB

Weintraub, who holds the master of science degree, is an instructor in the Department of Economics at the University, where he is a candidate for the doctorate degree.

This former school librarian was a research assistant with the National Science Foundation, utilizing his proficiency in the Russian language, in 1961. He has taught here since 1962 and is a member of the American Economic Association.

DR. CHARLES G. CRISPENS, JR.

Dr. Crispens, assistant professor of anatomy, previously won the Lederle Medical Faculty Award in 1964, at which time he also served as president of the Maryland Biological Society.

He earned his Ph.D. at Washington State University. He is the author of numerous papers and a member of both the American Association of Anatomists and the American Society of Zoologists.

DR. ROGERT H. HERMANSON

Dr. Hermanson is an assistant professor of accounting, having been at MU for three years.

He earned his doctorate at Michigan State University and has penned several textbooks and papers on accounting. The Maryland membership chairman for the American Accounting Association, he is also a member of the National Association of Accountants and the Academy of Management. He has helped develop programming techniques being tested here.

DR. DAVIS G. KYLE

Dr. Kyle received his Ph.D. in education from this university, where he is an assistant professor of education.

Formerly he was a public school teacher, guidance counsellor, psychologist and pupil personnel coordinator.

An instructor on both the undergraduate and graduate levels here, his own undergraduate work was done at the University of Denver.

DR. JACKIE G. WEATHERRED

Dr. Weatherred, assistant professor in the Department of Physiology, is a member of the Faculty Council, Curriculum study Committee, and other MU organizations.

The University of Texas awarded him doctorates dental surgery and philosophy. He belongs to such professional organizations as the American Dental Association and the Maryland Biological Society.

Texas-born, he joined the School of Dentistry three years ago.

DR. EDWARD F. BEALL

And Dr. Beall, assistant professor of physics, has developed an introductory course in his subject.

He has to his credit the authorship of several technical books and articles on physics. His Ph.D comes from the University of California at Berkley. He began teaching here in 1962. In the Department of Physics and Astronomy, he has introduced new types of experiments.

Their achievements, energies and ambitions, combined with the standards they have set for students, have produced awards for these recipients at the convocation, sponsored by the University Committee on Public Functions and Commencements.

Agriculture

THE OLDEST division of the University of Maryland at College Park is the College of Agriculture dating back to 1856. Headed by Dean Gordon Cairnes, the college offers a wide variety of programs. Striving to meet the needs of society, the college stresses the economic importance of agricultural science, technology and business. Food is a most important aspect of this college. Therefore a great amount of emphasis is placed upon soil conservation, production of pesticides and marketing of products.

Teaching is complimented with several research projects. There is an agricultural teaching station, a research experimental station and an extension service in the state of Maryland. In addition there are outlaying research farms in horticulture around Maryland. A recent addition is the two year terminal program in Applied Agriculture.

An eminent member of the faculty is Mr. B. Jones. This year he was awarded the Career Development Award by N.I.H. This grant will support his work comparing blood cells of invertebrates to insects for five years.

Arts and Sciences

ANOTHER ARCHITECTURAL addition to our campus is the building which houses the fine arts portion of the University. The fourteen departments of the College of Arts and Sciences offer such courses as American Studies, Speech and Dramatic Art, General Physical Studies, Government and Politics, History and Psychology. This year there was an addition made to the Art department, consisting of new courses and new instructors. Dr. George Levitine is in charge of the new program.

The honors program for the English Department has now been consolidated under the Direction of Mr. John Portz. In the past, there was more than one director, but in order to make the program more efficient, it has been placed under one person's direction.

Many research projects and new innovations have been introduced into the program of the College of Arts and Sciences. Among these is the new cyclotron installed in the Physics building, and the Speech Therapy Clinic.

Lobsters are one of the many types of animals studied in the Zoology Department.

The diversity of the College of Arts and Sciences is shown in the different courses offered – anything from chemistry to radio and television.

BPA

THE COLLEGE of Business and Public Administration can certainly be proud of the five college professors who have received the "Regents Awards for Excellence in Teaching" during the years 1963-65. Included are Dr. Norton Dodge, Dr. George Smerk, Dr. Walter Jacobs, Mr. Irvin Weintraub, and Dr. Roger Hermanson. These awards deserve special recognition since the college faculty has been honored five times since the program was established.

One significant change which has occurred within the college is found in the Department of Journalism. The shift now places emphasis on the core program rather than the treatment of journalism and business as alternatives.

The administrative abilities of Dean Donald W. O'Connell, who has received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. from Columbia University, has enabled the six departments to greatly expand in function and size. A new department, Information System Management, is encouraging careers in computer systems work, and is presently placing students in summer positions.

Education

THE NEW Education Building was the first to be built especially for the College of Education. Under the able planning of Dean Vernon E. Anderson and other members of the faculty, the reality of three years planning was finally completed. In this new building are located the science laboratories, the curriculum library, a nursery school, and lounges. The basement, which is next to be completed, will have an enlarged science teaching center which will enable students and faculty to become familiar with various educational media.

The reading center of the College is designed for the preparation of reading teachers. Children who need help in reading are assisted by graduate students.

Several faculty members are now supervising research programs. Among these is Dr. Maley's projects involving the vocation concept in secondary schools.

Dean Anderson speaks of the "significant growth of the College." This Fall, there was a thirty-seven percent increase in the number of entering freshmen as compared to last year.

THE ART of learning and teaching are the goals of the education curriculum. This school offers courses which benefit any professional person in the realm of teaching, from teaching art in elementary school, to educational statistics. In addition, the College of Education offers a comprehensive program for observation and practice teaching for future teachers. In the student teacher's senior year, she is given an opportunity to teach the grade for which she is prepared in an area school, for the semester.

Engineering

THE COLLEGE OF Engineering headed by Dr. Russell B. Allen is indeed one of the finest in the country. It offers degrees in aerospace, chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering or in fire protection. For the year 1964-65, out of the 71 colleges in the United States conferring Doctor of Philosophy degrees in Chemical Engineering, the University of Maryland was proudly awarded the fifth highest number. The college comprises six teaching departments and one research department; the Institution for fluid dynamics and applied mathematics.

Dean Allen came to the University in 1933 as associate professor in civil engineering and has since become Dean and faculty advisor to ODK and TBPi.

The engineering honorary, Tau Beta Pi, won the Outstanding Chapter Award for the third time this year out of 120 engineering colleges. This is the sixth consecutive year that TBPi has won a national award. The University was honored this year to host the 60th national convention of TBPi.

DEAN RONALD BAMFORD

Graduate School

THE UNIVERSITY of Maryland's Graduate School was established in 1918, for the purpose of providing advanced study programs for those students in pursuit of research programs beyond the undergraduate level. There are more than fifty departments in the University which are qualified to offer advanced study and degrees. While each program is rapidly expanding, the independent study theme still prevails.

The Graduate School has grown more in terms of percentage of students than the undergraduate school. Dean Ronald Bamford has been the administrative authority for thirty-five of the forty-eight years the school has been in existence.

Although the main emphasis of instruction of the graduate school is centered in College Park, there are growing extensions in Baltimore. Professors are selected to help direct a student's thesis work and formulate an appropriate program of research in the student's chosen field.

An extension of graduate facilities will be provided with the addition to the H. J. Patterson Building.

Grad school can be trying, especially with a reading list of 60 books.

The Computer Science Center, fully-equipped with many types of computers, is a boon to many of the departments of the University for solving technical problems.

Home Economics

The College of Home Economics is organized into the departments of Food, Nutrition, and Institution Administration; Family and Life Management, Housing and Applied Design; and Textiles and Clothing. The college is concerned with contributing to the education for home and family life of women and men enrolled in other schools and colleges, as well as those majoring in home economics.

This fall the college conducted a metabolic experiment with twelve girls involved. The project extended over a thirty day period. The first ten days the girls were fed steaks followed by ten days of amino acid synthesis and another ten days of wheat gluten as a protein substitute. The purpose of this feeding experiment was to compare complete protein to incomplete protein.

Other research projects within the College include dietary programs, research programs related to problems of mental retardation, human nutrition, food service, and home furnishings.

The College of Home Economics is now directed by Acting Dean Erna R. Chapman, who is also the immediate past president of the University of Maryland Alumni Association.

Physical Education

HEADING THE College of Physical Education at the University of Maryland is Dean Lester Fraley. The college awards bachelor degrees in areas of physical education which include physical education, dance, health education, recreation and physical therapy. In addition, this college provides special curricula in varied fields as safety education and elementary physical education. Dance is becoming an increasingly important program in education. Therefore, the college tries to meet all the demands made for teachers. Through the recreation program, graduates obtain leadership positions in industry, hospitals, public departments, and churches. Graduates of physical therapy work in helping the ill and handicapped.

There are many extracurricular organizations open to students enrolled in the college. Among these are Sigma Tau Epsilon, Major's Club; the Recreational Society, a campus affiliate of the national professional organization; the Modern Dance Group. Students are also participating in groups like Aqualiners, while they are busy in classroom and laboratory.

University College

THE NEW Adult Education Center has greatly expanded the University College facilities. Under Dean Ray Ehrensberger, University College offers evening courses for adults in the state of Maryland and nearby District of Columbia.

In 1949, University College extended its program overseas. Thousands of GI's abroad now take college credits at University of Maryland branches in Europe and the Far East. Approximately two hundred education centers in twenty four foreign countries on four continents offer college level courses. The main purpose of University College is to extend the services of the University through conveniently established centers throughout areas served.

University College offers two degree programs which included the Bachelor of Arts in General Studies and the Bachelor of Science in Military Studies. Evening courses are a great aid to those who work and wish to continue their education at night.

Teacher registration looks surprisingly the same as the confusing undergrad procedure!

Student Government Association

EMERGING FROM the fuss and flurry of a soggy, hectic spring election were the 1965-66 Student Government Association leaders. Fall, the beginning of a new year, brought both problems and innovations.

The storms of controversy were aroused several times. The SGA voted in November to back the SLAP-VC petition supporting the present policy in Viet Nam. In December the Central Student Court O.Kayed the SGA Viet Nam resolution in a case concerning the matter. The Chesapeake Bay Party's Constitution was taken away by the SGA for failure to comply with the SGA rules and regulations. The SGA also opposed a decision to phase the majorettes out of the University band. The most controversial case of the year centered around the Martz-Pearman decision by the Faculty Senate. The SGA supported Bob Martz and Mike Pearman in appealing to Dr. Elkins for modification of disciplinary probation slapped upon the two campus leaders for violation of a rarely used alcoholic regulation.

To the delight of coeds and men alike, the SGA-AWS got women's curfew hours lengthened. There was a corresponding extension of hours for the library. The perenially controversial dress code was finally settled by the SGA to allow women more freedom in campus attire. In the fall, the University acquired a $3,500 mechanical mascot, courtesy of the SGA, which was presented to the student body at the televised Penn State game.

Elsewhere in the innovation category, the SGA reorganized the cabinet and legislature and established a Pep Committee. The SGA was instrumental in forming a joint student-faculty committee to study drinking regulations. They also established a photo feature magazine, extended a line of credit for RHC Presents, got Macke milk prices lowered from 15c to 10c, and financed the Student Course Guide.

Graduation: Past Meeting Future

Looking back on the past, we see a foreshadowing of the future. It is the end of a struggle for some, the symbol of responsibility for others, but an entree into the future for all.

The Alumni Association

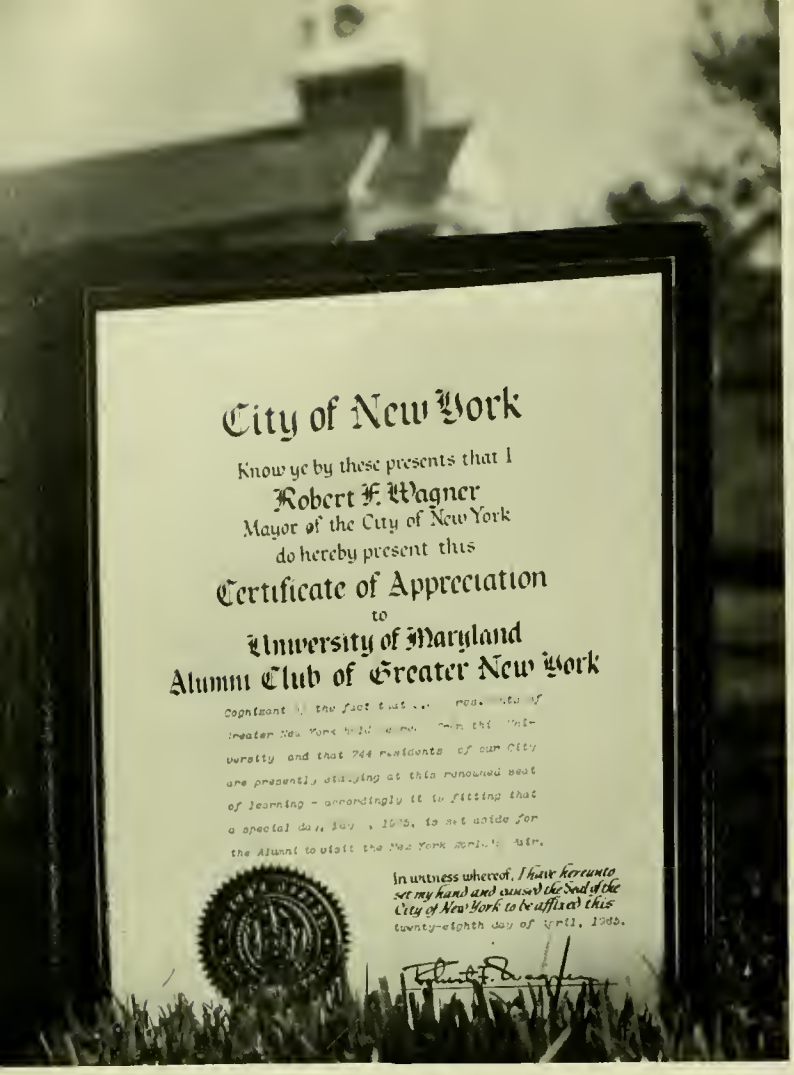
J. LOGAN SCHUTZ
Director of Alumni Affairs

To promote the interest and welfare of the University of Maryland

These are the objectives of the University Alumni Association, presently under the direction of Colonel J. Logan Schutz. Colonel Schutz serves as the representative of the University in alumni relations and is also Executive Secretary of the organization. In addition, his specific duties include formulation of a long-range alumni program, and keeping alumni up-to-date on University happenings.

Colonel Schutz has had an outstanding background, as an active Maryland undergraduate, up to his brilliant career in the U.S. Army. Colonel Schutz has served as Alumni Director for the past two years.

This is the way it all begins . . .



THE ALUMNI Association of the University of Maryland extends as far back as 1892. It was constituted in its present form in 1948 with the objective of promoting the interests and welfare of the University and to assist in furthering beneficial relations between our University, her alumni, and the citizens of the state of Maryland.

The Alumni Council is composed of three representatives from each alumni chapter, an "M" Club representative, a representative from each geographical area, and the past presidents of the Council. Serving as the secretary-treasurer of the Council, and the Director of Alumni Affairs for the University is Colonel J. Logan Schutz.

Mr. Schutz returned professionally to his alma mater two years ago, assuming the post which he now holds. An outstanding undergraduate student leader and athlete, his distinguished U.S. Army service record earned him many decorations.

Every graduating senior is rewarded with a gift from the Alumni Association, which is a one year complimentary membership in the Association.

The banquets and reunions of the Association are very important, but the most significant factor in the organization is efficient membership in order to extend the institution's influence outside the gates of the University. With the increased enrollment, and enlarged building underway, more and more alumni are needed to assist the University. On the other hand, a great number of college graduates realize that through their support and assistance both they and their alma mater benefit.

Teresa Dale O'Neill

A step toward the "Miss America" crown was provided by the Junior Class, through the enlargement of the traditional Junior Prom Queen title. "Miss Maryland University" is now the official entry of the Junior Class and the University in the "Miss Maryland" Pageant, held to choose the State's representative to the national Pageant in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Preliminaries began in early March, as each campus dormitory and sorority house elected a junior representative to compete in the official swimsuit, talent and evening gown competitions. The preliminary judging and personal interviews held in the BPA auditorium on March 17, produced eleven semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists competed in Ritchie Coliseum on March 24, in a fast moving panorama of talent and beauty, supplemented by entertainment from Flying Follies and live coverage by WMUC.

Alpha Chi Omega's entry, Terry O'Neill, emerged as the winner after a dazzeling display of her talents as a modern dancer. Runners-up were Suzanne Javoroski, representing Centerville Hall, Joyce McGee of Alpha Delta Pi, Sandy Rosencrance of Kappa Delta and Eileen Aptaker of Caroline Hall.

Terry began her reign as she was crowned by Imogene Haber, "Miss Maryland University 1965" and Lynn Hamilton, "Miss Maryland" and Junior Prom Chairman.

TERRAPIN

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND YEARBOOK

THE TERRAPIN staff is faced with the monumental task of recreating in 472 pages the University's vibrant life of the preceding year. Approaching yearbook production with a new format, the 1966 Terrapin has placed emphasis on student life through the feature story approach.

In spite of the prevailing opinion that the University is comprised merely of 27,000 numbers, there is no typical student. There are only individuals as varied as their interests. This publication has been an attempt to mirror this community—the scholar, the athlete, the non-conformist, the conformist, the loner, the partier, the B.M.O.C., the All-American, the foreign student.

A new section on events and impressions has been added to this year's book in the hope that some of the seldom publicized campus events will be artfully portrayed to give to the student body a better conception of common-place, yet little discussed, occurrences in the University community.

The TERRAPIN Staff is open to all students interested in publications and photo-journalism. Of course, the staff is—by all means—not limited to Journalism majors. The 1966 Terrapin staff is comprised of undergraduate students representing all of the colleges here at the College Park campus.

The DIAMONDBACK

AN AWARENESS of off-campus events as they affected University students marked Diamondback coverage this year.

For example, as the Viet Nam conflict became more and more important, the newspaper assigned a special reporter to cover only the Selective Service "beat."

Editor F. Martin Kuhn and Managing Editor John M. Purnell also supervised award-winning coverage of such stories as a state Ku Klux Klan rally and a study of state motion picture censorship.

In addition, expanded campus coverage—with more reporters and more spot news—helped the four-time-a-week paper publish the greatest number of pages in its history and gain an All-American rating from the Associated Collegiate Press.

WMUC

WMUC, now in its 22nd year of broadcasting, is the University's student-operated radio station. This past year is considered to be a rebuilding year, with credit for the vast improvement of the station going to the programming department. In addition to the new programs such as "Pipeline SGA," and "Voice Your Opinion," the news department of MUC presents newscasts every half hour, national news from NBC, and the new series "Comment," and in depth feature of interest to students at the University. MUC also covers sports of major interest, with away games covered via the sports network.

A spirited campus organization, composed of both men and women, the staff of MUC offers training to students interested in commercial radio, and entertains and serves the students of the University.

University Relations

Tom Orpwood
News Bureau Editor

Students employed by the News Bureau gain practical experience in public relations while serving the University.

Robert H. Breunig
Publications Editor

ALTHOUGH student publications are not included in their area of responsibility, the Publications Editors take a great deal of interest in counselling student editors and making their facilities available to them.

The University Publications Office is responsible for the design and production of all official University publications, and for reviewing the majority of faculty publications. Some of the publications of this office include the President's Annual Report; the Record; and the General and Academic Regulations.

The News Bureau, another phase of the Office of University Relations, is the public relations group for the University. They supply newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations with campus information.

Each year the News Bureau receives the senior portraits from the TERRAPIN which are then mailed to the graduates-to-be home town newspapers.

Al Danegger, the university staff photographer, has directed the Photographic Section for the past fifteen years. A recipient of the Oscar Fisher Award for "Outstanding service to Professional Photography," he has recently been named "University Photographer of the Year" by the University Photographers Association. Danegger is presently the Chairman of the Faculty Committee for the Catholic Student Center. He has worked closely with TERRAPIN staff members and helped organize a new system of film processing and printing for the 1966 TERRAPIN.

RUSSIAN PROVERB

For the second consecutive year, several hundred students, several University Chaplains, and other notable guests enjoyed the Prayer Breakfast. The Prayer Breakfast held here at the University was sponsored by the Student Government Association, and there were student representatives from many of Maryland's colleges. An overall purpose of the Prayer Breakfast is to emphasize the role of religion in all our lives, and to stress the idea of religion and prayer on a common ground.

B'nai B'righ Hillel Foundation

HILLEL IS the campus foundation which fosters participation in and appreciation of the religious, social and cultural aspects of Judaism. It represents all Jewish students at the University, and facilitates their entrance into the adult Jewish community. Programming is both secular and religious, including films and a speech by a civil rights worker, Israeli folk dance lessons and study groups on topics of Jewish interest, guitar classes and social events. Every Wednesday night members tutor needy children, while on Friday nights, Saturdays and holidays they conduct traditional services. The Hillel House provides facilities for recreation and study, and also houses the nation's largest Kosher Dining Club for students.

Conducting the High Holiday services for University students, Rabbi Sheingold blows the shofar, the traditional ram's horn, which calls the congregation to prayer. Assisting him are Allan Stark, Hillel president, left, and Stan Fishkind, who are each holding a Torah, the story of the Jewish people.

Hillel House is oriented toward recreational as well as spiritual development.

Newman Center

THE LONG awaited dedication of a Newman Center on campus finally took place on Saturday, April 10, 1965. Among the many eminent guests and speakers at the Dedication ceremony were Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, Archbishop of Baltimore; Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington; Phillip M. Hannan and John S. Spence, Auxiliary Bishops of Washington. Also present were Reverend Tepe and Reverend Kane, the University's Catholic Chaplains.

The Newman Center provides a place for Catholic students to meet, study, and work, as well as supplying countless academic and social functions. The dedication of the Center culminates the effort to establish a Newman Center since the initial organization of a Newman Club in 1933. Students, alumni, parents and guests listened with pride to the ceremony—a ceremony which marked the beginning of a great opportunity to form young men and women in the image of Christ.

Archbishop of Washington Patrick A. O'Boyle and Archbishop of Baltimore Lawrence Cardinal Shehan proudly watch the dedication of another Newman Center.

World Day of Prayer

WITH A spirit of faith in the future of mankind working together through "the grace and goodness of God," the World Student Christian Federation celebrated a day of prayer at the University Chapel. Appropriately called the "Universal Day of Prayer," this calling together of peoples of all denominations represented a common destiny which is so often forgotten in such a swiftly-moving world. This second annual rededication brought all Christian denominations once again to a shared sense of thanksgiving for new and creative opportunities that today provides for both socialization and science. Students, professions, and administrators have a duty to mankind to understand the significance of their newly gained knowledge as all mankind will share a common predestination. "With hope and faith, let us give thanks to God for the rich diversity of overworld . . . and let us pray to God that his spirit made available in Christ may open our eyes to behold His great gifts to men."

. . . It is work for a God.

in Wonderland

The White Rabbit invites Alice to follow her into Wonderland.

Wondering, wondering, Alice speculates on that land of the fantastic that might be soooo . . . nice!

I'm late, I'm late, I'm late

EARLY THIS season, the University of Maryland's Experimental Theater presented a musical version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." Primarily a presentation for children of elementary school age, Sarah Schlesinger's adaptation of the known Victorian fairy tale proved by virtue of its professional excellence to be appealing to those who viewed it, children and adults included. Under the direction of Roger Meersman, the play which is written mostly in dialogue delighted the audience by the flying in and out of the queens. In addition, song and dance are an important part of making the play so lively with a mysterious element provided by quick scenery changes. Fresh, new talent made the presentation complete.

Madrigals Perform at the White House

BY PRE-ARRANGEMENT, the 17 madrigal singers and their director, Rose Marie Grentzer, Professor of Music and founder of the University's madrigal group, were asked to present a 15-minute program of Christmas music at the White House. Among guests entertained were President Lyndon B. Johnson, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, and Chancellor Ludwig Erhardt of the German Federal Republic.

The Madrigals, singing songs of the Renaissance period in German, received a standing ovation, then were invited to enjoy some refreshments and stay for the dance. The Madrigal girls were taken for a spin around the floor by President Johnson, and the boys all had a chance to dance with Luci and Lynda Johnson.

The madrigal group, composed mostly of music majors, toured the Near East, North Africa and Europe during the spring of 1964, under the auspices of the State Department's Cultural Presentations Program.

Attention is focused on Maryland's Madrigal singers, as they begin their world-famous performing.

UT's Showboat

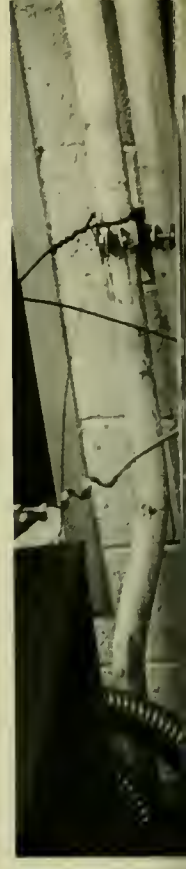
THE University Theater's presentation of "Showboat" hallmarked many new innovations for the Department of Speech and Drama. In addition to being the first presentation staged in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium, it was also the first musical of its kind ever to be presented at the University of Maryland.

As the curtain rose, the audience was delighted to witness the appearance of a miniature showboat, which progressed slowly across the stage on an invisible screen. The effect was much like that of a motion picture production. From this point onward, "Showboat" began to unfold a story of joy, sorrow, romance and humor of the 1880's. Each act and scene held an unexpected surprise for the viewers. The shifting of the massive showboat to disclose the inner stage of the boat was the climax of the presentation. No other show could have been more appropriate for the christening of the new auditorium.



"SHOWBOAT" preparation began months in advance of opening night. Many hours were spent stringing lights, rigging the cyclorama and hanging the grand drape.

While work was being completed on the stage, immediately below it, in the make-up and costume rooms, much work was also being accomplished. First, research was conducted to assure accurate 19th century costumes. Next, enough materials and ornaments were bought to provide each member of the cast of forty with at least three costume changes.

Parasols were made to order to match the bright polka dot and checkered gowns. Bustles were fabricated from cotton and foam rubber. Even bright, white spats were fashioned to accent the male's patent-leather shoes.

Many problems were faced and overcome by the production staff. The top hats which were ordered from New York were much too large and had to be stuffed in order to be usable. The revolving showboat came off it's tracks many times and often held up rehearsals. The musical director was delayed in Canada. The long hours of rehearsal and staging finally paid-off as the curtain rose on opening night and the audience was delighted. This production was the first to be performed in the new "Tawes Mahal."

THE PRESENTATION OF "Showboat" marked several new innovations for The University of Maryland. First, it marked the opening of the J. Millard Tawes Auditorium in the new Fine Arts Building. In addition, a play with the scope and glamour of "Showboat" made this opening a brilliant success.

Drama Wing

"DRAMA WING" was established as the nation's first dramatic service fraternity. Averaging some 460 productions a year (including two plays weekly), the wing presents dramatizations of family problems for local PTAs and other civic organizations concerned with the behavioral problems of children.

Since its founding, the group has travelled 24,000 miles and performed for 43,000 persons. The success of its 1963 tour of Missouri and Arkansas prompted the University of Arkansas to initiate similar productions.

Dr. Thomas Starcher of the Speech Department acts as advisor to the wing.

Drama Wing members join the elite at Sardi's in New York City.

The cast of "High Pressure Area" is introduced to the audience.

Stage and screen actor Henry Fonda graciously accepts an honorary membership to the Drama Wing.

. . . a little bit of everything.

THESE ARE the words which describe the variety group here at the University of Maryland. Well-known as the Flying Follies, this group, which has recently increased its membership to thirty-four performers, is completely student-run. The people involved with the Flying Follies make their costumes, the music is composed and arranged by the members, even the stage and lighting crews are students. Director of Flying Follies is Frank Tudisco, who is responsible for much of the production work. The most recent performance of the Follies was entitled "Potpourri," and was performed in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium.

Aerospace Studies

"Every citizen who enjoys the protection of a free government, owes not only a proportion of his property, but even of his personal services to the defense of it."

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Veteran Guidance

MARYLAND'S Professor of Aerospace Studies is Colonel Vernon H. Reeves. Colonel Reeves is a career Air Force Officer, command pilot and educator.

During World War II, Colonel Reeves was a B-17 pilot. He was assigned to Hickam Field in December, 1941. After the attack on Pearl Harbor, he flew submarine reconnaissance missions. He later flew reconnaissance missions over Guadalcanal prior to the U.S. invasion.

The Colonel piloted the first American bomber in air operations against the Japanese in the Battle of the Bismark Sea. During the course of the battle, his aircraft sustained serious damage, and every member of the crew, including Colonel Reeves was injured. With skill and courage in the highest tradition of the Air Force, he brought the aircraft back to its base.

Colonel Reeves has continued his distinguished service since World War II in several assignments.

Looking back on Colonel Reeves' educational background, he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in education from Arizona State College, and received his Master of Arts degree from Columbia University. Since that time he has attended several Air Force schools, among them the Air Force Air Command School and the Staff School.

Both the men of the ROTC program and all the students at the University salute Colonel Reeves. It is men such as he, in combination with his outstanding and qualified staff, who so effectively instruct Maryland cadets who are future Air Force officers.

WHEN A student becomes a Cadet he is starting on a four year journey to become an Air Force officer. This is the first year that AFROTC has been voluntary at Maryland and the results have been surprising. Over a thousand students signed up in the fall. But all of these will not become Air Force officers as some will decide on other careers.

The cadets, from the first day they draw a uniform to the day they become a cadet officer, undergo an indoctrination program which trains them to function as leaders.

Field Training

"WELCOME TO field training—the Air Force version of perpetual motion.

Forget the idyllic life of the campus, mister, we're going to turn you flabby collegians into dynamic, forceful leaders of the aerospace team. You'll rise before the sun, fall in, and run a couple of miles just to work up an appetite.

After morning drill comes classes—classes you can't cut or sleep through.

You can relax with a fast game of softball, and we'll even take you on a few flights, just so you can get the feel of it.

It's a rough life, but you'll love every minute of it—won't you mister?"

WHEN AN AFROTC cadet reaches his senior year, he is ready to hold a staff position. By this time he has completed field training and is ready for an office position. Qualifiers may also earn their private pilot's license under a flight indoctrination program. At graduation the cadet becomes a 2nd lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

New Officers receive their commission.

THE TERP'S outlook was good this fall with ten returning lettermen who had played 64 per cent of last year's games away. With an average height of 6'3", good depth and good speed, Maryland hoopsters drew enthusiastic crowds to Cole Field House for exciting games. Starting off the season with a bang, the team won the Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament in New Orleans over semester break, but failed to make any impression in the ACC Tournament, losing to North Carolina, 77-70.

Resident Halls Council

IN THE PAST year the Area Councils (Hill, Cambridge, Denton, and the Mobile Units) have coordinated their efforts through the newly formed Residence Hall Council comprising the entire 8,000 resident students and 97 residence halls.

Each residence hall belongs to its area council, and sends representatives to its meetings and events. Each area council has its president and another elected representative sitting on the over-all Residence Hall Council. Starting next year, the President and Vice-President of the Residence Hall Council will be sitting on the SGA Cabinet to assure residence hall students adequate representation in the SGA.

They have tried to better the position of all dormitories within and on the campus. The Area Councils have worked with the Dining Halls to help provide better service for the residents. For the first their own newsletter in which they try to keep their residents informed on what their Council and other residence halls are doing. The Area Councils do all they can to help the residents and residence halls to have a well rounded program in athletic, social, cultural, and academic pursuits.

Alpha Chi Omega

ALPHA CHI OMEGA has had a busy year with activities ranging from Flying Follies to Majorettes. Lynn Edgley was on Senior Legislature, Who's Who and Mortar Board. Linda Chase and Joyce Munk were on Junior Legislature, and Carol and Jan Orban were on Sophomore Legislature. In honorary fraternities were Sue Robinson, President of Omicron Nu and Sue Berbert, President of Sigma Alpha Eta. Representing Alpha Chi Omega in Diadem were Bobbie Evans and Betty Jiles. Working together in the true spirit of sisterhood, Alpha Chi Omega received honors by taking third place in IFC sing and Sorority Olympics. Carol Higgins was elected WRA secretary and Karen Tulin was elected AWS secretary. Beauty is present in the Alpha Chi Omega house and this was evident when Terry O'Neill was second runner-up for Interfraternity Queen. The A Chi O's also helped in the library for two months as a service.

Alpha Delta Pi

THE ONLY white brick sorority house on campus houses the sisters of Alpha Delta Pi. They have won several honors on campus, and many members have attained positions of honor on campus. Carol Lawson is the president of Angel Flight, and Jeannine Royce and Barbara Soper are also members of Angel Flight. R.A. White is Panhellenic Rush Chairman; Chapter President Bettie Field is Secretary and Social Chairman of Radio-T.V. Workshop. Carolyn Dickerman has become a member of the Royal Canadian Ballet, and is going to London next year to study and teach. Jane Powers was a Pledge Queen Finalist in November, and Susan Martin shot her way to the WRA Archery Championship. Loosening their vocal cords, the ADPi's won first place in Harmony Hall this year. The more athletically-minded sisters swam their way to first place in the WRA Marathon Swim.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI—Front Row: T. Rubin, R. Katz, E. Gichner, Corr. Sec., J. Klein, 2nd V.P., B. Fox, Pres., L. Streen, M. Skaist, C. Coburn, Rec. Sec., M. Sherr, Treas., S. Alpha Epsilon Phi

THE GIRLS who live on Eleven Fraternity Row, the sisters of Alpha Epsilon Phi, are noted for their enthusiasm in participating in all forms of campus and greek activities. AEPhi has representatives in honoraries like Diamond, Diadem, Mortarboard, Kappa Delta Pi, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Pi Delta Epsilon. The sisters are members of the People-to-People committee, the Dorm Judicial Boards, the Student Union Board and various SGA committees. Many AEPhi's have fared well in several beauty contests, as was seen when Leslie Kogod placed in the Miss Maryland Union contest, and when Judy Kaplan was chosen First Runner-Up to the Pledge Queen. This year the Maryland AEPhi chapter was honored to receive the National award for the most active chapter. Regardless of their busy schedules, the AEPhi's still find time to have an annual Christmas Party.

Alpha Epsilon Pi

FOUNDED IN 1913 at New York University, Alpha Epsilon Pi did not come to this campus until 1940. The brothers are a charitable group, as attested by their well-known annual Christmas Party at the National Institute of Health and their party in the Spring for mentally retarded children. In campus activities, the brothers claim the president of the Free State Party, Paul Savanuck, Richard Keller in Kalegathos, and Richard Brodsky and Jeff Lintz, both class representatives to Men's League. Very much interested in athletics, the guys have won the bowling championship and various softball playoffs. Their present officers include Richard Keller, president; Mark Newman, vice-president; Mike Gelman, treasurer; and Paul Stein and Ron Weinraub, secretaries.

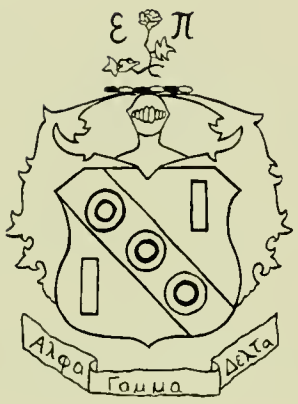
Alpha Gamma Delta



THE SORORITY'S active members have put in a busy year under the leadership of their president, Elaine Folk. Bringing honor to Alpha Gamma Delta was Eleanor Barney and Margot Heggestad, who joined Alpha Lambda Delta, and Elaine Folk who joined Alpha Lambda Delta, and Elaine Folk who joined Tau Beta Sigma and Gamma Sigma Sigma. Susan Miller, Carol Hardin and Christy Peterson joined Diamond. Christy Peterson had a second honor when she was asked to join Sigma Alpha Iota. The Alpha Gamma Delta's were also very proud of their pledge class this year. They came in second place in the Pledge Skit Night. Rounding out an active year, Alpha Gamma Delta had their annual Apple Polisher's Dinner for their professors.

Alpha Gamma Rho

GREEN AND gold are the colors which represent the Maryland chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho. The brothers have been especially busy this year, with campus and house activities. They recently won the Pi Beta Phi Door Decoration Contest, with a multi-colored peacock designed with a professional flair. Several of the brothers represent the fraternity in campus honoraries; among these is Ken Stiles and Max Perry in Who's Who and Omicron Delta Kappa; Bill Boyd, Bryan Streaker, Ken Stiles, and Bob DeLauder in Alpha Zeta; and Lee Ridgely, Ken Stiles and Dave Miller as members of Kalegathos. Bill Seider is a member of Maryland's Madrigal Singers, and Lee Ridgely was recently awarded a special alumni award for outstanding achievement. A busy schedule of social and cultural activities keeps the AGR's especially active. Last Spring they escorted the sorority housemothers to the Flower Show at the D.C. Armory, and to add to their others activities is the annual Sorority Cow Milking Contest.

Alpha Omicron Pi

THE SISTERS of Alpha Omicron Pi have been active in numerous organizations this year. The honoraries they represent are Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Delta Epsilon, Phi Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Eta, Phi Chi Theta, Diamond and Diadem. They also have members on Mortar Board and Who's Who. Active in other fields are Anne Nicholas, M-Book editor and Kathy Kowal, FOB Handbook editor. The AOPi's have also been busy in the Women's Press Club, Flying Follies, University Theater, Women's Glee Club and the TERRAPIN. The Red Cross Blood Drive on campus was sponsored by their sorority. For the future, Alpha Omicron Pi is expecting their new house addition to be completed by September, 1966.

Alpha Phi

THIS YEAR, the sisters of Alpha Phi have gained recognition on and off campus for their activities and their beauty. Sandra Bascom and Mary Whitehill have been busy working as Aqualiners. The sorority placed first in IFC sing and WRA bowling and swimming. They are active on Diamondback, Greek and M-Book. Beauty also holds an honored position with these girls. Pat Murphy was a finalist for Homecoming Queen and Nancye Bahen was a finalist in the Miss Maryland contest. Finalist for Miss Maryland Union was Trish Clark. The active sisters are not the only outstanding members of Alpha Phi, for pledge Joyce Newman was a finalist for Pledge Queen. Off campus, Pat Slevin was a finalist for Glamour's Ten Best Dressed Women and Diane Longeler participated in the Eastern Shore Tennis Championships. Completing a busy year, the sisters of Alpha Phi had their annual Spring Fashion Show and their Spring Formal.

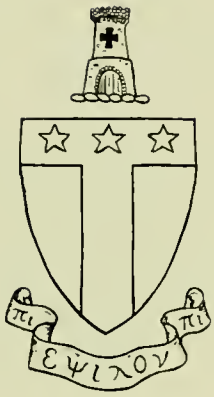
Alpha Tau Omega



ALPHA TAU Omega, founded at VMI in 1865, is celebrating its centennial birthday this year. ATO has won innumerable honors, and its members have attained many high positions of leadership on campus. Don Robertson is president of Omicron Delta Kappa, and John Ross is also a member of ODK. Pete Michael is Chairman of the Who's Who Committee and of the People-to-People Committee. Bob Smith was elected treasurer of the Freshman Class, while Dick May is a member of the SGA Legislature and will be the Chairman of next year's Homecoming activities. John Ross is Chief Justice of the Central Student Court, and vice-president of the Men's League is Brian Benson. ATO was awarded the Individual and Team Sports trophies, and they placed second in football, basketball, and football. The ATO's were awarded the Hillock Trophy for the outstanding fraternity.

Alpha Xi Delta

THE NEW ADDITION to the Alpha Xi Delta house was completed this year and amid this new background, the girls have been quite active. Sharon Kelbough, Betsy Blades and Nancy Glasglow were members of Diamond. Mary Gemmel and Chris Day were busy as Aqualiners. Athletically, Sharon Miller, of the Maryland Bowling Team, and Karen Miller, chairman of the WRA bulletin board committee, have gained recognition for Alpha Xi Delta. Other honorary members are Bonnie Vance, Alpha Psi Omega, and Lana Parresol, Theta Sigma Phi. Off campus, their members tutor at Spingarn High School in Washington, D.C. For the future, Alpha Xi Delta plans to continue the Grace Hill Memorial Award and also sponsor a magazine drive.

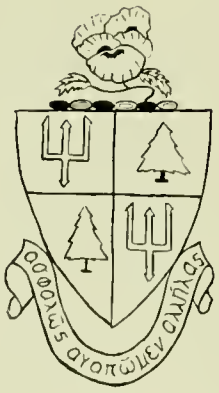
Delta Delta Delta



THE STRAINS of "Delta, Delta, Delta" echo through Ritchie Coliseum each year at the Inter-Fraternity Sing, which the Tri-Delts sponsor. Delta Delta Delta, founded nationally in 1888, and bearing the colors of silver, gold and blue, was founded at Maryland in 1934. This has been a busy year for the active Tri-Delts as they placed first in the Sorority Olympics and WRA Bowling Tournament, and won the well-earned WRA Participation Cup. The members who have made outstanding contributions on campus include Joan Weaver, president of Mortarboard, Joan Quigley, Homecoming Queen, Bonnie Finn, Captain of Color Guard, and Anne Ulman, vice-president of Diadem. A Tri-Delt always maintains her lady-like appearance, as seen by Jean Carnevale, who was chosen best-dressed co-ed on campus. The Tri-Delts also claim a new addition to the cheerleading squad, and Pledge Queen.

Delta Gamma

THE WARMTH AND congeniality of the sisters of Delta Gamma exists not only in their house, but also in their participation in campus life. Outstanding members were tapped for Diadem, Diamond, Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Alpha Iota, and Sigma Alpha Eta. Eileen Kelly and Muriel Zetter are members of the senior and junior legislatures respectively, while Linda Lawson serves as Freshman class secretary, Delta Gamma's also take part in publications' work, with Marge Fuzo Copy Editor, and Barbara Graham Greek Section Editor of the Terrapin. Last Spring found Molly Wueste wearing the crown of "Campus Chest Queen," while Ros Elaine Zetter won the title of "Miss Southern Maryland." Friendly and helpful to fraternities, Molly Wueste and Carol Werner are Little Sisters of Minerva. Last Spring, with the added assistance of their housemother, the DG's were chosen "most sociable."

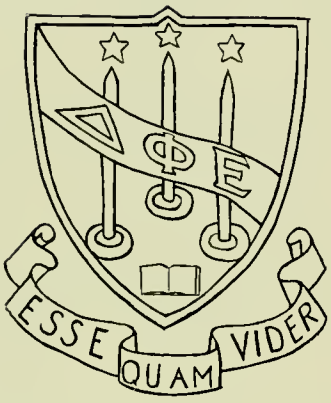
Delta Phi Epsilon



ONE OF THE sorority houses in the area known as the "grahamcracker" is that of Delta Phi Epsilon. The sisters of DPhiE are interested in almost every phase of campus life, as exhibited by the many girls who are participating in activities, and by the many honors the girls have won. Sheila Deitz is a member of the Junior Class Legislature, Hollace Goldberg is a daily editor of the Diamondback, and Judy Selznick is secretary of the SGA Finance Committee. In addition to this wide variety of committee and organization membership, honoraries such as Sigma Alpha Iota, and Sigma Alpha Eta are represented by Maxine Black and Wendy Klotzman respectively. Darla Fishbein was recently awarded a Student Assistantship in pediatrics research. The girls have also sung their way to fame in the 1965 IFC Sing and Harmony Hall.

Delta Sigma Phi

DELTA SIGMA Phi distinguished itself by having the only housemother hurt in an IFC football game. This fraternity was established at the University of Maryland in 1924, after having been founded at City College of New York in 1899. At present there are many of the brothers who are active in different phases of campus life, namely Robert Ferguson in Kalegathos, and Marty Schwartz, a swimmer on the Maryland team. Academically, the Delta Sigma Phi's are in good standing, after they placed third in the fraternity scholastic averages in the Spring. The officers of the fraternity are Robert Ferguson, president; Chuck Bongar, vice-president; John Reeve, treasurer; and Richard Trogolo, secretary. This year the brothers had an excellent fall rush, and plans for the future include redecoration of their ballroom.

Delta Tau Delta

THIS YEAR Delta Tau Delta boasts an outstanding and diversified list of activities and functions. Brothers hold positions on the Interfraternity Council Court, the University Band, Men's League, and the Sophomore class. Politically, they strongly support the Old Line Party. In sports and athletics, the softball and bowling team, last year's division champs, are looking forward to another successful winning season. The Delts have the rare distinction of assembling the list of halls for parties and other social functions, for the IFC. The brothers have demonstrated their artistic ability by winning the Homecoming Float contest and taking honorable mention in the Door Decorating contest at Christmas. The Delts are represented in Kalegathos by Bob Purvis and Frank Cirillo, and in Omicron Delta Kappa by Jim Bedingfield.

Gamma Phi Beta

VERSATILE AND active, the sisters of Gamma Phi Beta have endowed our campus with their charm for twenty-five years. Originally founded in 1874 at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York, they presently have eighty-nine chapters throughout the United States. Their colors are light brown and dark brown. Their members are active in many groups and organizations on campus. Ella Jane Peebles is president of the Young Republicans, Barbara Grim is second vice-president of Panhellenic Council; Phyllis Allen and Georgia Shaw are members of Angel Flight and Diamond, and Tina Cunningham was Chairwoman of the Pledge Dance Queen's Committee, and Chairwoman of the Junior Prom Queen's Committee. The Gamma Phi Beta's had finalists in Pledge Queen and Miss Maryland contests. The sisters are now anticipating their 25th annual Founder's Day at Kenwood Country Club.

Kappa Alpha Order

FOR TWO YEARS now, Kappa Alpha has placed first in intramural touch football. In 1964, they won the IFC touch football championship. But athletic ability isn't their only claim to fame. Dick O'Neill, current president for the fraternity, is also a member of Kalegethos, Greek Men's honorary. George Raffo, KA's corresponding secretary, is chairman for the IFC Ball Committee. At their annual Rose Dance in the fall, the KA's crowned the Rose Queen, their "sweetheart." Each year the KA's hold a Spring Weekend in Ocean City, Maryland, where the fun is. Another annual project that the Kappa Alpha's have a lot of fun doing is the Orphan's Party each Christmas, which the KA's sponsor in conjunction with Kappa Delta sorority.

Kappa Alpha Theta

VERSATILITY was the key word for Kappa Alpha Theta this year. Their girls represented them in Diamond, Diadem, Who's Who, Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Angel Flight and Aqualiners. They won scholarship awards from Maryland and Washington Panhellenic Councils. Some of their outstanding members were Gretchen Schwarting, head of Campus Judicial Board, Barb Lovelass, Central Student Court, and Barb Bourgeous, Junior Class Legislature. In the Spring, the Theta's were busy sponsoring the annual kite flying contest during Greek Week. The officers who guide this sorority are Cathy Fondren, president; Gretchen Schwarting, vice-president; Lorraine Laffan, pledge trainer; and Trish McClung, treasurer.

Kappa Delta

THE SISTERS of Kappa Delta have been very active on campus this year, and they are very proud of their members. Carol Caputo was selected for the cheerleading squad and Lorraine Ernst was first runner-up for the Homecoming Queen. Susan Verney and Janice Davies also brought honor to Kappa Delta by being selected for Alpha Lambda Delta. Kathy Scott was selected for Sigma Alpha Eta, the honorary for speech therapists. Representing Kappa Delta in Diamond are Barbara Miller, Ruth Martin and Ann Bendel. This Christmas, they had their annual orphan's party. Politically, Sandy Rosencrance was secretary of the Old Line party. In the arts, Kay Murphy was in Drama Wing and Margaret Elkins was in University Theater. This year, Kappa Delta also had a mother-daughter and father-daughter banquet.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

KAPPA KAPPA Gamma was founded at the University of Maryland in 1929. Since then the Kappas have shown their enthusiasm in the campus and greek activities in which they take part. The Kappa's are represented in many campus organizations, with many of their girls leading these organizations as officers. In Mortarboard, we find Mary Jane Nystrom, who holds the vice-presidency of the organization, and is also president of the KKG's. Several of the sisters hold offices in their classes; Lynn Beveridge is secretary of the junior class, and Sue Wills is the secretary of the sophomore class. The girls have exhibited their poise and charm by representing several fraternities as their sweethearts. Kappa's also find time in their busy schedule to sponsor various philanthropic projects. They sponsor a pumpkin sale to raise money for their nursing scholarship, and they co-sponsor a Christmas Party for orphans each year. United Nations Day is graced by their presence as usherettes, and they also sponsor Pledge Skit Night.

Lambda Chi Alpha

"BEHIND THE green door, brotherhood is our most important product." This is the motto of the brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha at Number 6, Fraternity Row. Their brotherhood has led many members to fame and honor on campus. Charles Dombrowski is the first vice-president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and president of Kalegathos. Bob Bories and Duffy Brown are both members of the Student Government Association Legislature, John Barron is vice-president of the Free State Party, and chairman of the Pep Committee, while Mike Mitchell is Freshman Class President. Together with Phi Sigma Sigma, the brothers of Lambda Chi acted their way to first place in the Kappa Kappa Gamma Skit Night. Among their philanthropic efforts are projects for the Salvation Army, and a Christmas Party for underprivileged children.

Phi Delta Theta

"PHI DELTA, Phi Delta Theta," are the strains of a traditional song which the brothers of Phi Delt sing at their many parties and social functions. One of the largest houses on campus, Phi Delta Theta has members in almost every phase of campus life. They have won the All-Sports award, the IFC Track Championship, and the IFC Football championship. In addition, there are several Phi Delts on the varsity basketball team. On the political line, they have officers of the Sophomore and Senior classes, and officers on the IFC. The brothers take an active part in strong support of the Old Line Party, with Al Parker as the president. Campus events like the Spring Greek Week find the Phi Delts taking an active part, with their sponsoring an event. All-American track star Mike Cole also can be found listed in the register of "Who's Who." Completing the long line of versatile activities which this fraternity participates in is the Community Service Day which they hold in the Spring.

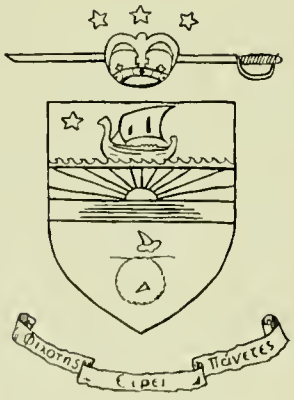
Phi Epsilon Pi



ALTHOUGH THE Maryland chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi was able to attain housing for only one year, while they did live on campus they became well-known for their contributions in the fields of academics, sports and social life. Phi Ep Mike Weiner was the high scorer for the IFC intermural basketball games. In academics, the Phi Ep's have made their marks by having the most improved scholarship last year, and by having the highest overall fraternity average for a two year period. The first president of the Maryland chapter of Phi Ep, Steve Tulkin, was also one of the first members of Phi Beta Kappa on the Maryland campus. The officers of the fraternity at present are Bruce Feinberg, president; Don Hordes, vice-president; Jeff Menick, treasurer; Michael Weiner, pledge master. On the philanthropic side, the Phi Ep's held a fireside chat with Dr. Yaney on the political scene, and the brothers also brought a group of orphans to the zoo. Future plans are hopes for a new chapter house.

Phi Kappa Sigma

THE COLORS old gold and black belong to the fraternity whose Maryland chapter was established in 1898, namely Phi Kappa Sigma. Phi Kap, as they are commonly called, is located on the row. The brothers are active in both their chapter activities, and numerous campus functions. They claim members in Kalegathos, including Jeff Evans, Hunter Kesmodel, and Tom Marshall, and one of the brothers, Jay McMillan, is president of the Junior class. Jack Heim is an All-American lacrosse player, while there are several other lacrosse players in the fraternity. Among the Phi Kap alumni are such notable men as Maryland's Senator Joseph Tydings, Rod Breedlove of the Washington Redskins, and Maryland Justice Judge Pendergast. Among their well-known fraternity functions is their annual Weekend in Ocean City.

Phi Kappa Tau

EACH YEAR during the Fall semester, the brothers of Phi Kappa Tau sponsor the largest activity provided for by one fraternity, Harmony Hall, a barbershop singing competition participated in by the Greek houses on campus. In addition to this activity, the Phi Tau's also present the Bronze Bucks Award, which is given to an outstanding senior fraternity man who is not frequently recognized for his contributions. In addition, they award the well-known "Battle Axe" given to the outstanding housemother on campus. The Maryland chapter of Phi Kappa Tau was established in 1950, and is presently located in the Gulch. Their plan for the future, however, is to re-locate in a new and bigger chapter house. The Phi Tau's are waiting in great anticipation of their yearly weekend in Ocean City.

Phi Sigma Delta

"PHI SIGMA DELTA—the one to watch," is the motto of the brothers of the fraternity as they strive to enhance their position on campus. This year they were off to a rousing start by winning first place in the Blood Drive with a huge gold trophy, and capturing second place honors in the Homecoming, 1965 Float Building Contest. The enthusiastic chapter officers this year are Bob Zitin, president; Stan Ismart, vice-president; Ken Lechter, secretary; Mike Gewirtz, treasurer; and Skip Tash, pledge master. Among their annual social events, the members of Phi Sigma Delta co-sponsor the annual boatride together with Sigma Nu. As their service project, the brothers sponsor a Christmas Party for needy orphans.

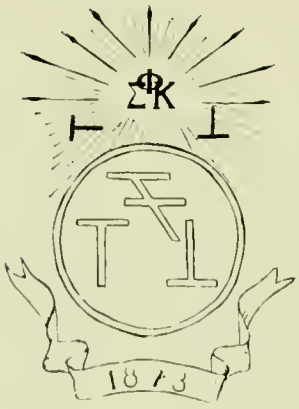
Phi Sigma Kappa



PHI SIGMA KAPPA, founded at MU in 1897, certainly has not become stagnant in its old age. Although they won first place in the IFC Golf Tournament, the Phi Sig's claim more intellectual rather than athletic ability. Eric Stoer, current Phi Sig president, is also a member of the Faculty Senate Publications Board, and Kalegethos. President and Treasurer of IFC are Elwood Stark and Robert Haynes, respectively. Bob Haynes is also treasurer for Kalegethos and Phi Sigma Kappa, and editor of Greek Magazine. Michael Grieg is president of the pre-law club, and Mike Gregus is the president of the Maryland Chapter of C.C.A. But the Phi Sig life isn't all work; they won first place in the Chug-a-lug Greek Week contest, and their "Si's" Gigifs are famous. The Phi Sig's sponsor an annual Christmas Party for children from Junior Village.

Phi Sigma Sigma

THE SISTERS of Phi Sigma Sigma first established their Maryland chapter in 1936. Represented by the colors king blue and gold, the sisters have taken an active part in the academic, social and cultural life at Maryland. Several of the sisters have shown a flair for acting and singing as exhibited by Imogene Haber's participation in University Theater's Anything Goes, and by the outstanding performance of Phi Sigma Sigma's Harmony Hallers, who placed third in the last competition. Honoraries like Diamond, Diadem and Sigma Tau Epsilon are represented by Susan Katz, Nancy Chotiner, and Cindy Salzmen respectively. Imogene Haber placed in the second runner-up position for the Miss Prince George's County title, and was also chosen as Miss Congeniality. Phi Sigma Sigma's pledges stole the show on the night of the Pledge Skit competition, and as a result walked away with the first place trophy. This Fall the sisters sponsored a Halloween Party with SAM for children from the D.C. area.

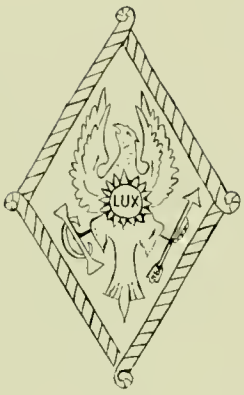
Pi Beta Phi



THE GOLDEN arrow of Pi Beta Phi can be seen at all the major campus functions this year. Dawn Sheeler is on the Senior Legislature, and is copy editor for the M-Book. Sue Dayton is secretary of the Central Judicial Board. Pi Phi's members of Angel Flight include Sharon Harper and Marilyn Manser. Judy Adams is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, the freshman women's honorary. Karen Kells is a member of the Aqualiners, a precision swimming group. Pi Beta Phi has also won several trophies as proof of their efforts. They shared first place with Delta Tau Delta in the 1965 Homecoming Float Contest. Last year's canned food drive won them another first place trophy. Scholarship has certainly not ebbed with all this activity, though, as attested by the awarding of the first place trophy for Most Improved Scholarship.

Pi Kappa Alpha

PI KAPPA Alpha, founded at the University of Maryland in 1952, was established originally in 1868 at the University of Virginia, and presently has 131 national chapters. Here at Maryland, their house is located on College Avenue, and the brothers can often be seen playing football on their spacious front lawn. In keeping with their interest in football, two of the brothers, Bill Slacum and Jay Headman are All-IFC basketball. Lee Seabolt represents the fraternity in Kalegathos, the Free State Whip, Sophomore Legislature, and FOB Social Committee. The fraternity came out with top academic honors by placing first in fraternity averages, by having the highest number of pledges initiated, and whose pledges received the Pledge Scholarship award. The PiKA's were also charitable enough to construct the College Park Playground for area children.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON—Front Row: D. Obrecht, I. Dobry, C. McLaird, K. Henrickson, Mrs. Galbraith, housemother, H. Tackett, Pres., E. Elling, A. Mitchell, D. McCain, S. Roop. Second Row: K. Sigma Alpha Epsilon

"THE MARCHING SAE's," as the words of their fraternity song say, live on fraternity row with their house dutifully guarded by two gold lions, whose colors often change according to the whims of different sororities and fraternities. The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon founded their Maryland chapter in 1943, and they have since made their mark on our campus. This Fall their Harmony Hall Barbershop Quartette earned first place with their rendition of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and last Spring the brothers won first place in the Kite Flying Contest. SAE's candidate for Miss Campus Chest won first place in the competition, during Greek Week. The SAE's claim membership in many of the University's well-known honoraries, such as ODK, and several of their members now hold class offices. The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are busy with social functions throughout the year, with the AWS-SAE Christmas Pageant during the holiday season, and their Spring Formal in May.

Sigma Alpha Mu

THE BROTHERS of Sigma Alpha Mu are a politically-minded group, as is exhibited by their interest in campus politics. Fraternity president Arthur Goldberg is active on the Interfraternity Council, Junior class, and the Free State party. Other politically-oriented brothers include Glen Taud, Freshman legislature, and Alan Coven and Bob Fine, Election Board. In the realm of athletics, the fraternity has members of the lacrosse, tennis and golf teams. The SAM's spend much of their time organizing and sponsoring philanthropic projects, among them a Halloween Party for underprivileged children, and the "College Night Casino Royal" for the Ernie Davis Scholarship Fund. Last year the housemother of Sigma Alpha Mu, Mrs. Allen won the coveted "Battle Axe Trophy," for the outstanding housemother on campus. SAM's plans for the future include an Easter party, fireside chats, and improvements on their house.

SIGMA ALPHA MU—Front Row: J. Myerberg, S. Landsman, R. Finkelstein, A. Coven, V.P., A. Goldberg, Pres., H. Lipsitz, Treas., D. Himelfarb, A. Dorenfeld, C. Fineblum, C. DeGualle, J. Colvin, M. Sigma Chi

THE SIGMA CHI'S are very proud of their new house addition which gives them a new kitchen, dining room and eleven new sleeping-study rooms. Besides this new addition to their house, the men of Sigma Chi have added recognition to their chapter. Ned Quales, Jim Owens, Gary Adams and Brian Barkley are members of Kalegathos. The M Club members in Sigma Chi are Joe Minninger, Vaughn Baker, Stan Graves and Chico Medina. Bob Casazza and Carl Boyer are both active on the Diamondback. This Winter, Sigma Chi sponsored a Christmas party for orphans and old folks. This Spring, they sponsored the Derby Day, involving sorority competition. The Sigma Chi's were certainly heard from on campus this year, and so was their mascot, Siggy.

Sigma Delta Tau

THE SISTERS of Sigma Delta Tau know how to plan a year that is versatile in activities, academics and social functions. The SDT's have a wide scope of programs for the philanthropic portion of their sorority. Each year they spend time with groups of orphans, work with foreign students, and coordinate meetings with various independent students to attain better unity between Greeks and independents. Three of the sisters are in Alpha Lambda Delta, namely Ruth K bin, Ann Sax and Lynn Mandel. Frannie Bukzin is president of Diamond, the Sorority women's honorary, and Cookie Schwartz and Joyce Epstein are also members of this honorary. Represented in beauty contests, the SDT's candidate for Greek Week Queen won First Place. The sisters of SDT are a group with varied interests, as shown by their school participation.

Sigma Kappa

SIGMA KAPPA was founded in 1874 and has been established at the University of Maryland since 1940. This year, the Sigma Kappa's held many honorary positions on campus. Margaret Hall was a member of Diadem and Diamond, SGA secretary and former Junior class officer. Emmy Lou Make, also a member of Diamond, is first vice-president of Panhellenic Council. The Sigma Kappa's also had a very exciting Homecoming weekend. They had a finalist in the Homecoming Queen contest and they took second place with their Homecoming Float. This spring, they began an Annual Tea for all the retiring faculty as a part of their National Gerontology project.

Sigma Nu

"TO CONTINUE our phenomenal growth, both quantitatively and qualitatively," is the slogan to which the Sigma Nu's here at Maryland are aspiring. The brothers of Sigma Nu are renowned for their annual sponsorship of the IFC Greek Week Queen Pageant. At present, the brothers of Sigma Nu are active in such organizations as Kalegathos, Gamma Theta Pi, Traffic Court, Marching Band, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. A bit of spice is added to the all-male environment of the fraternity by the local auxiliary to the fraternity, the Sigma Nu Girls. In athletics, Sigma Nu claims varsity baseball and track stars, and Mike Kerr is a member of the cheerleading squad. This fraternity also has Bob Maddox in the position of treasurer of the SGA. Sigma Nu's pledge class has won a name for itself by placing first in pledge class scholarship.

SIGMA NU—Front Row: A. Kunz, D. Hintze, M. Crosby, Pl. Trainer, S. Minnich, Treas., R. White, Pres., M. McElroy, V.P., S. Christiansen, Sec., J. Roberts, Soc. Chrm., J. Trocino, M. Sigma Phi Epsilon

SIGMA PHI Epsilon has representation in many and varied honoraries this year. Edward Dodd, the fraternity president, and Dennis Dutterer were recently tapped by Kalegathos. Warren Koontz and Thomas Painter are both in Omicron Delta Pi and Tau Beta Pi. Richard Zimmerman, Maryland's Drum Major, was chosen as a member of Who's Who. Sig Ep is also very active in campus activities. Edward Dodd serves on the SGA Finance Committee, and is also the Senior Class treasurer. Dennis Dutterer is second vice-president of IFC. Richard Zimmerman is a member of the SGA Legislature. Martin McAlwee is secretary of the Men's League. The fraternity men are champions of volleyball. A philanthropic project of the Sig Ep's is an annual raffle for the Heart Fund.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

ALTHOUGH IT WAS founded nationally in 1889, Tau Kappa Epsilon did not find its way to the University of Maryland until 1949. But since that time, this fraternity has accomplished a great deal. Bill Oxenham, Jerry Cherezco, Rick Spinella, Lee Bernhardt and Frank Contino are on the soccer team; Whitey Marciniak is a football letterman; Pat Flanagan and Tom Catalano are both on the lacrosse team. John Bertinatti, who is presently president of the chapter, and Fran Knowles, are in Kalegethos, the Greek Men's honorary. Although sports and athletics seem to be the highpoint in this fraternity's activities, with Bob Kopnisky winning the NCAA wrestling tournament, they are also very socially-minded. Each Christmas they sponsor an Orphan's Party for the children from Junior Village. This they co-sponsor with Delta Gamma, with a party for the guys and girls afterwards.

FOUNDED AT Maryland in 1829, Theta Chi returned to the campus this fall. They didn't waste any time becoming active on campus, and at present are represented in Tau Beta Pi, the engineering honorary, as well as the Gymkana troupe. The fraternity officers are Steve Smith, president; Charles Morton, vice-president; Detlef Loss, secretary; and Charles Kuhne, treasurer. The spicy atmosphere of the streets of Paris prevails when the brothers of Theta Chi hold their annual French Party in the Spring. Before long, the Theta Chi's hope to fulfill their plans by building a new addition to their present house.

Zeta Beta Tau

ALTHOUGH Zeta Beta Tau was founded nationally in 1898, a chapter was not chartered at Maryland until March, 1948. The brothers of Zeta Beta Tau are very active on campus. Their ranks include Ricky Lamb and Wally Kleid, vice-presidents of the Freshman and Junior classes respectively. Gene Walman serves as the Chief Justice of the Interfraternity Council, and Mark Mason is the Treasurer of Men's League. The chapter's officers at present are Gene Walman, president; Larry Pearson, vice-president; Joel Taylor, secretary; and Ronnie Caplan, treasurer. The ZBT pledges performed admirably at the annual Skit Night, and ran away with second place honors. During Greek Week in the spring, Zeta Beta Tau sponsors an exciting bike race. As for their future plans, they promise "another great social program."

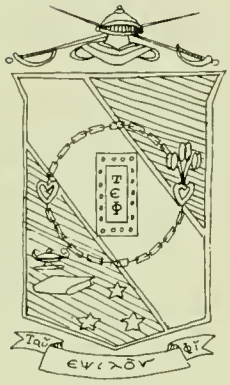
TAU EPSILON PHI



SINCE its establishment at Maryland in 1925, the Tau Beta chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi has grown to a membership of one hundred brothers. Today an unwavering enthusiasm permeates TEP's social, academic, athletic and campus endeavors. For their interpretation of songs from "West Side Story" the TEPs captured first place in IF Sing. Also during Greek Week the fraternity won the chariot race. In the area of athletics TEP placed second in the overall inter-fraternity sports competition. The brothers placed first in track and participated in the semi-finals for basketball and volleyball. The Blood Drive, College Casino, and Operation Match were sponsored by TEP. In addition to these fraternity endeavors, TEP boasts individuals who have been extremely active on campus. Four brothers are members of SGA among them Ted Levin, president of SGA. Other TEPs have been chairmen of the SGA Homecoming committee and of the Spring Weekend.

THE 1966 TERRAPIN, in completed form, physically represents a quarter of a million pounds of books which total 17,000 volumes in number. Financed by the student activity fee paid each semester, our annual is distributed at no additional cost on a first-come first-serve basis to the undergraduates at the close of the spring semester.

Past Terrapins have served many functions such as door stops, bonfire material, etcetera. On the serious side, however, this one publication is a continuing history of the University. The staff is charged with the assignment of accurately reporting the previous year to the best of their ability. This publication therefore serves as an important public relations tool in revealing the many aspects of college life.

The 1966 Terrapin has been planned in such a way as to give the reader, if he has been at MU during the past year, I.M.R. (instantaneous mental recall). The front end-sheets of the book are headlines, courtesy of the Washington Evening Star, which serve to bring the readers mind back to this year. The back end-sheets from the Diamondback bring back even further I.M.R. with campus news items. The 472 pages meshed between these end-sheets have recorded a variety of events through the feature story technique.

Behind the staff of the 1966 TERRAPIN is a group of persons who, year after year, have helped us in many ways. We wish to give special recognition to them, some of whose pictures appear on this page. I also would like to thank my staff for a difficult job which was "well done."
